

Dissent from secondary use of patient identifiable information

If you want to control how the Health and Social Care Information Centre (HSCIC) uses patient identifiable information, you can select one or both of the following options:

1. You can prevent your GP practice sending any identifiable information to the HSCIC. Selecting this option will still allow identifiable information held by hospitals and other health services to be sent to the HSCIC.

2. At the moment you cannot prevent identifiable information from hospitals and other health services from being sent to the HSCIC. However, you can prevent any patient identifiable information from leaving the HSCIC secure environment. The information will still be available to use within the NHS for your care.

Please note that the above options still allow information to be used in exceptional circumstances, such as a national emergency, or where the law otherwise allows, as may be the case with the detection of crime. You can change your mind at any time and opt back in by informing the Practice.
